Biography

Since 2016, I have worked full time as a sculptor, muralist, and digital designer. My practice is grounded in a deep fluency with CAD and graphic design, and fully realized through physical application. I seek to dissolve the boundaries between disciplines, creating a fluid exchange between painting and sculpture that deepens my understanding of process and form while strengthening my ability to communicate and collaborate effectively. Shaped by extensive experience working with diverse municipalities, people, and places, my role as a creative conduit continues to bridge voices, environments, and visions through the dual lens of sculptor and painter.

As a Colorado native, my work is rooted in honoring local wildlife and regional ecologies while remaining deeply responsive to the communities and environments it inhabits. My visual language blends realism and graphic surrealism with abstract geometric structures that balance composition, echo architectural forms, and create moments of tension, cohesion, and harmony. Through this approach, I aim to create visually cutting-edge experiences that spark curiosity and wonder, fostering a renewed awareness of shared spaces across all ages and cultural backgrounds.
