Biography

Eric Karbeling:

"I am a Honolulu, HI-based artist focused on transforming environments through painting murals in my style of improvisational forms (aka squiggles) to craft colorful hypnotic imagery. The goal of my work is to evoke a sense of joy, calm, and balance amidst chaos inviting the viewer to get lost in and find inspiration in the way the imagery comes together while forging a stronger connection with the place of the work, just as I do while creating it. With a background working as a UI/UX designer where everything is created within constraints to achieve a specific goal, my artwork was born as an unrestrained response with the sole goal of creating something beautiful. I have painted murals for organizations around the US including schools, mural festivals, music festivals, professional sports teams, private clients, and charity/community projects. All stemming from the first mural I painted in my own apartment."
