Biography

Hugo Mulder ('72) aka DHM is a painter, artist and graphic designer from Amsterdam, the Netherlands. He started doing graffiti in '84 - graphic design in '90 - and back to the streets with stickers, past-ups and mural painting in 2001. As a senior graphic designer he worked for clients like Nike, Adidas, O'Neill and Coke and runs his own studio for the last 25 years. His street art work is a series of mostly animals all drawn in his well known tribal/tattoo style. Next to that he creates hand painted canvases where the last 10 years he is mostly focussing on the female body shape in a new line driven abstract figurative style.

Hugo's work has often been published nationally as well as internationally in books, newspapers, magazines and online. His work has been exhibited in some 80 solo- and groupshows in a.o. Miami, London, Paris, Berlin, Cologne, Brussels, Basel, Lyon, Angers, Baltimore, Den Haag, Amsterdam and Rotterdam. In 2006 he had his first museum show in the group exhibition "Dutch Masters" in Gemeente Museum Den Haag (GEM), which he also co curated.
