Biography

Jofre Oliveras (b. 1989, Girona, Spain) is a semi-nomadic artist currently based between Spain and India. With an academic background in philosophy and journalism, Oliveras developed a deep interest in language, shaping his career to use art and writing as tools for communication with a focus on social environments.

Rooted in Mediterranean culture, his work reflects classical influences through diverse materials and creative processes, maintaining a strong connection to classical techniques and the landscape that inspired him. Primarily working in public spaces, Oliveras uses art as a medium to engage with communities and cultural contexts.
